

Celebrating the latest Value Award winners

In October, Radiology Partners (RP) recognized its latest Value Award winners. This important tradition recognizes physicians and support team leaders who embody RP's practice values - integrity, teamwork, excellence, service and accountability.

The following teammates were recently named Value Award recipients. Please join us in congratulating them for their work!

Dr. Andrea Nicole Cole, Practice President, RP Georgia

She embodies this value through many qualities, including her drive, compassion, patience and dedication to her team. Her goal is always to ensure that patients receive the best care available, and her commitment to this is visible through her participation in various committees at her facility and at RP that are working together on this common goal. Her team says, "She is always thinking outside the box and is not afraid to speak up when something needs to be advocated. Dr. Cole shines in the area of service."

Courtney Klefstad, Vice President of Operations

She is known for her ability to diplomatically solve problems and find common ground when issues arise. She is committed to ironing out obstacles and leveraging needs to promote a spirit of teamwork, no matter the complexity or difficulty. Her teammates describe her as the ultimate "pinch hitter" who steps up to lead or supports others in their leadership - whatever is needed for the good of the team. Her team says, "She puts the team first, never asks about what's in it for her and delivers in the clutch. Everyone knows she will come through."

Cindy Pivik, Vice President of Physician Partnerships

She was recognized for her helpful spirit and dedication to making the practice a better place. Known as the ultimate team player, she ensures colleagues are well-informed and coordinates among all those impacted on projects. Cindy offers guidance, shares resources and supports her team in all she can. Her team says, "She truly is a joy to work with and makes RP a better place because of it."
